Dragon Ball Super Card Game: "The New Wave"

Hello reader, this is Joshua Cassity, a new member of the newspaper. This is an article about the new game of the decade. Have you ever heard of the card game known as Dragon Ball Super? Didn't think so. Anyway, Dragon ball Super card game (dbscg) is a very fun game based off of the famous manga and anime Dragon Ball. Although many people have not heard of it, the people that do play (me) find it very entertaining and would love for you to join!

The Dragon Ball Super Card Game is a game that has all of its cards based off of the iconic manga dragon ball. You win by beating down your opponent's life until they have 1 left then finish them off with one final blow. There is tons of strategy to the game and it is super fun to make a deck based on your favorite cards. The game can take any character from the series and make a whole archetype off of them, and the saga/arch they were in the manga.
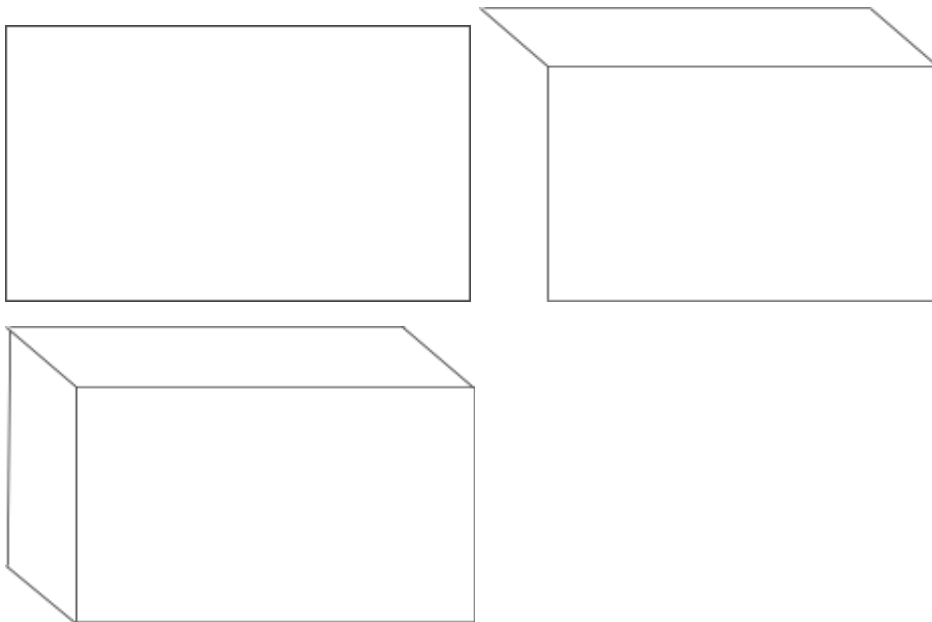

How to Draw

Hello Friends! This is the right slide for you if you are an anime or manga fan!

     I am Rianne, a self-taught 10-year-old artist who loves anime like Sailor Moon, Spy x Family, and much more! As a self-taught artist, I wasn't exposed to many art teachers as a young child, but I always wanted to draw so I decided to look at some tutorials!
     There was a problem though, sometimes art tutorials need to be improved. To make your art journey easier I have put together a few slides on how to draw, and this is one of them.

Book Recommendations

The Darkest Path is about a kid in the Glorious Path's army. The Glorious path is trying to take over the U.S.A. It is a fun book, but has some violence. I would recommend it for 4th graders and up, But a 3rd grader could read it.

"Ask Fleury"

Dear Fleury,

Nobody thinks that the hobbies I like are sensible.

Hobbies:

- Dragon Ball super Card Game
- Dungeons and Dragons
- Math
- Running
- Yelling
- Yelling at people who think my hobbies are not sensible

Do you know what I should do? (It can't be stopping those hobbies)

Thanks a million

- I hate the people who hate my hobbies

Dear I hate the people who hate my hobbies,

Thank you for writing! My personal advice is to just ignore them. I, too, live with people who dislike my hobbies of licking my fur and sleeping 90% of the day. I just remind myself that I, Fleury the Cat, and simply cooler than them. Not everybody likes the same things, but if you ignore the haters, you can find people who truly have similar interests to you.

Best Regards,

Fleury :)

Dear Fleury,
How do you play video games if you don't have fingers?
From, rUo

Dear rUo,
Though some may not know it, I, Fleury the cat, am a pro gamer. I am well-versed in the art of gaming. Fortnite, Minecraft, and Roblox are my favorite games. Some think having paws will be an inconvenience, but they are helpful. All you have to do is switch the display mode to cat mode, and you are all set! Ever wondered why a computer mouse is called a computer mouse? They were originally invented for cats, but humans also liked using them! If you ever want gaming tips, please send me another email as well.
Best Regards,
Fleury the Pro Gamer Cat

_____

Dear Fleury,

Why do cats hate water? Is it because it will hurt, or is it because it will feel a little weird?

-anonmis

Dear, Anonmis

I have been asked this question many times throughout my column-writing days, so I am very knowledgeable on this topic! Most people probably think that it feels uncomfortable on our fur. This is true. Do you ever take a shower and afterward you want to blow dry your wet hair or put it up? It is sort of like that for cats. Our fur soaks up all the water, causing it to become heavy and causing us to lose balance. It also washes away the cat's scent, which is a main 'way cats identify their territory and identify other cats. Another reason cats don't like water is because most cats are descendants of African Wildcats, who lived in very dry climates. Because of this, they avoid water today. There are many other reasons cats don't like water. It can be associated with past trauma, and other reasons. Of course, some cats do like water, which is rare, but happens. I myself do not care for it.

Hope this helped,

Fleury the Cat :)
